

Biography

Dr. Maria Cerdà Sevilla works as a Quantum Technology Expert at the European Quantum Industry Consortium (QuIC). Dr. Cerdà Sevilla previously held a project manager position at TUM Venture Lab, where she was responsible for the development of the TUM innovation and founder pipeline and the growth of the overall network. Furthermore, she worked as a research associate at the Humboldt University of Berlin and the Technical University of Munich, respectively. She received her PhD in physics from the University of Liverpool and her Master's degree in theoretical physics from the University of Valencia.